COME IN CURIOUS

In collaboration with London Bridge Child Care Services, the Canadian Association for Young Children (CAYC) is offering a Special Evening Session:

What does it mean to honour Indigenous ways of knowing in early years settings? How can we see ourselves as participatory researchers, and research itself as an ethical practice that is mindful of seven generations?

We invite you to come think together about what it means to engage in participatory research with Indigenous early childcare professionals, who will share stories from their communities and early years contexts. This special session is hosted by the Canadian Association of Young Children.
